DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 1-3 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being clearly anticipated by Ayers et al.

Ayers discloses an electrical connector assembly comprising: a first electrical connector (300) including a first housing (fig. 3), a first engaging portion extending outwardly from said first housing (fig. 5 unnumbered), and a fixing unit (334, 336) disposed on said first housing and located adjacent to said first engaging portion (fig. 3); and a second electrical connector (352) having one end adapted to be connected to an electronic device (404) and the other end connected detachably to said first electrical connector (figures 5-7), said second electrical connector including a second housing (352), a second engaging portion (402) that extends outwardly from said second housing (fig. 5) and that is connected to said first engaging portion (fig. 7), and a positioning member (406) disposed fixedly on said second housing and located adjacent to said second engaging portion (fig. 5); wherein one of said first and second engaging portions includes a plurality of parallel contact pins (316) disposed fixedly thereon (fig. 3), and the other one of said first and second engaging portions includes a plurality of pin holes (unnumbered fig. 4) formed therein for receiving respectively said contact pins therein to form an electrical connection between said first and second electrical connectors (figures 5-7), said positioning member engaging said fixing unit so as to prevent relative movement (fig. 7) between said first and second electrical connectors in an axial direction (fig. 5 at A) of said contacts; wherein said first electrical connector further includes a sleeve unit (320, 322) disposed fixedly on said first housing around said fixing unit (fig. 5), said sleeve unit being sleeved fittingly on said positioning member when said first engaging portion and said second engaging portion are interconnected (fig. 7), whereby relative movement between said first and second electrical connectors in a transverse direction of said contact pins is prevented.

Regarding claims 2 and 3 Ayers discloses that said positioning member is constructed as a hexagonal nut (fig. 4), said sleeve unit being constructed as a circular sleeve (fig. 6).

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 4-6 objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

5. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: Regarding claims 4 and 5 the shapes of the sleeve. In claim 6 the shapes of the positioning member and fixing unit.

Conclusion

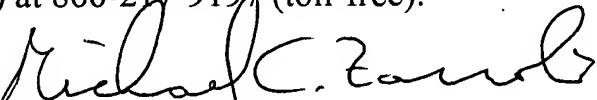

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Medina et al teaches a plate positioning member but no pins or second connector. Waters et al teaches engaging portions only one of which extends from the connector housing and no sleeves. Thompson teaches a hexagonal sleeve. Liao et al teaches positioning members and fixing units but no pins.
